Global Net Commerce, Inc. provides wireless back-up for Credit Unions hurt by Hurricane Katrina

Providing New Wireless Program Services to the Financial Industry

Irvine, California – September 20th, 2005 – Global Net Commerce, Inc. (GNCI) working in concert with CO-OP Credit Union Members reach out to provide mobile banking services to victims of Hurricane Katrina. The ability to respond to the devastating effects of Hurricane Katrina is a momentous task. As Katrina passed east of New Orleans on August 29, 2005, winds were in the Category 1 or 2 range, and tidal surge was about a Category 3. Though Katrina missed the city, the storm surge caused levee breaches and precipitated the worst disasters in US history.

In an effort to assist victims in getting access to basic services like cash from an ATM, ENT Credit Union and GNCI teamed up to offer a specially designed mobile banking van with on-line wireless ATM access. The combination of quick response and dedication by ENT ATM manager Lisa Hand was key to getting this difficult job done. Lisa assisted with both the Mobile ATM Van and navigating through the bureaucratic logistics of deploying the unit into the impacted area. "GNCI's wireless ATM application helped us bring vital banking services to Gulf Coast Community Credit Union." Said Lisa, "the employees and customers really appreciated this outreach of caring and support. Gulf Coast Community Credit Union located in Gulf Port Mississippi was especially hard hit by Katrina."
